SIBLEY

The first record book of "Records of the Town of Manchester, 1645-1658"has been lost but from the "Records and Files of the Quarterly Courts, of Essex County" we learn that John Sibley was chosen Constable, member of the Jury, member of the Jury of Trials, and member of the Grand Jury. He is also said to have been a selectman in 1636, admitted a freeman May 6, 1635.

John Sibley, the immigrant, arrived in New England, in the Fleet of 1629, which consisted of five ships, loaded with provisions, cattle, pieces of ordanance, mariners, and planters. Exact dates of birth, marriage, and death of John Sibley, of Salem, progenitor of the line of Sibley are unknown....His father William Sibley, a tenant of the Manor of Bradpole, died previous to Sept. 2, 1617....

Evidently John Sibley of Salem was a young unmarried man when he arrived in the Massachusetts Bay Colony. He was in the employ of Sir Richard Saltonstall, as denoted by a deposition made by him on 1: 5 mo. 1657, in connection with his master's cattle, kept at Nahant with those of Isaac Johnson. .... He married probably about 1641 Rachel, daughter of Lawrence and Elizabeth Leach of Salem. If he was previously married there is no record of it. Presumably he died in June 1661, for on the 25th of that month his widow Rachel, appeared in Court with an inventory of his estate, taken the previous day, which amounted to 52 pounds and 13 shillings, the widow was appointed administratrix of the estate and was to have the property for the bringing up of the children, of whom there were nine, four boys and five girls. After her husband's death in 1661, Rachel Sibley married 2nd Thomas Goldthwaite, of Salem. She was living in March 1683, when Thomas Goldthwaite made his will..

Children of John and Rachel (Leach) Sibley:

i Sarah, bp.Salem 13 (7(1642
/ ii Mary, bp 8 (7) 1644, mar. Jonathan Walcott.
iii Rachel, bp Salem 8 (3) 1646 said to have married a Bishop;

/ John Gaines Joslin, b Oct. 6, 1794. His tombstone inscription in Riverside Cemetery, Anamosa, Iowa, gives place of birth as Pittstown, N. Y., date as above; died August 28, 1868, farmer, ae 64, Fairview township.

When he married November 1, 1813 in Brecksville, Ohio, he gave his age as 20 years 19 dys., and Candace Walcott as 23 yrs. 3 mos.

Great Nine Partners Tract was the northern half (approximately) of Dutchess County, and many families from Rhode Island came there about 1750. From 1738 to 1761 it was called Crum Elbow Precinct for administrative purposes, although this precinct included more than just the Great Nine Partners Tract. However the records of this precinct and of Charlotte Precinct which succeeded it in 1762 do not show the name of any Joslin. They probably came to Nine Partners after the Revolutionary War.

This information came from Mrs. Maud Joslin Lamb of Inglewood, California: "John Gaines Joslin was left an orphan at six, he was bound out and at fourteen ran away to some other relative. When he was eighteen he went to Huron County, Ohio. There was a widow there, Mrs. Hope Cambell Joslin, widow of Sergeant Joseph, and I have thought they were related. Later John Gaines and some of his half brothers, the Brown, bought land and Candace Walcott's father must have been living in 1813 as she was married at the home of her father.

I have thought he might have had a serious accident as the folks (Mrs. Lamb's) told how great grand mother took her baby Clark, one year old, put him on a chair, rode up with her horse took the baby and went over stone walls to her father. She must have been an accomplished horsewoman. She had a beautiful spprano voice and was very religious. The folks also told how Candace used to ravel muslin for thread, for thread was a dollar a spool and money scarce. When John Gaines Joslin went to Michigan he helped lay out the town of Saline, and there is alake there called Joslins Lake."

John Gaines Joslin was a soldier in the War of 1812, and aided in the building of forts under the direction of General William Henry Harrison. He lived to be seventy four years of age, while his wife (Mrs. Candace Walcott Joslin) reached the advanced age of eighty-eight years. During the gold expeditimn to the Pacific coast, John Joslin with two of his sons made the trip to the gold fields of California with ox teams over the Fremont Trail. On reaching California, they settled on the American River where they engaged in placer mining, with good success, one day washing out twenty eight dollars in free gold. But the father became ill with scurvy and was obliged to return home, the trip being made by way of the Isthmus of Panamsa, and up the Mississippi to Davenport.

Mr. Joslin was a native of New York state and served in the war of 1812 under General Harrison, and drew his land warrant for 160 acres, after peace was declared, he came to Ohio, and settled sixteen miles south of Cleveland, near Brecksville and engaged in farming; in the fall of 1827 he removed to Michigan and remained in that state until 1837 when he sold his farm and emigrated to Iowa and settled in Jones County.

He bought a large quantity of prairie and timber lands, the following year he returned to Michigan and brought his family to Iowa by wagon; they were about four weeks on the way. They arrived in Jones County, August 22, 1838, and settled permanently in Jones County about four miles south west of Anamosa in Fairview township.

He was one of the first to settle Jones County, he and his sons helped to raise the first sawmill. He was a member of the first Grand jury that sat in Jones County, he died August 25, 1868.

A record from the National Archives and Record Service of Washington, D. C. is the property of Marjorie Hungerford Cook and her sister Mrs. Miriam R. Hungerford Ritenour.

Captain Reed's Company in which John Gaines Joslin enlisted was from Ashtabula County, Ohio. People from that county began moving into Huron County as early as 1808. Many of those in the war of 1812 were from Ashtabula county, and John Gaines Joslin is listed in Ashtabula county History as a soldier from there. But in their lists of early settlers there are no Joslins. Their court house burned in 1849 and all early records were lost. Some they were able to copy from township records, but some had lost their early records by fire too, and the older people made up the lists as best they could, so we have no real proof that the Joslins were not in Ashtabula County.

However, Captain Reed's company marched through the Cleveland area on their way to Ft. Avery. They would naturally have taken the Great War Path which is now the Mason Road, which avoided the cliffs and swamps of the lake shore, and this would lead them through Brecksville. It is entirely possible that the Joslins were living in Brecksville all the time, and that John joined the company when they stopped there either for the night or for refreshment.

Cuyahoga County Marriage Records show the license and marriage of John G. Joslin to Candace Wolcot, "both of Cleveland" October 30, 1813, by Erastus Miles, J. P. The latter (referring to the J. P.) was a resident of Cleveland, the husband of one of the daughters of Lorenzo Carter, Cleveland's first settler.

John G. Josslin, (spelling varies) came with his family to Jones County, Iowa, and most of them are buried in the Riverside Cemetery, Anamosa, Iowa.

Their children, some of them born in Ohio, are listed below:

i George Joslin, b Aug. 1, 1814, d infancy

* Dr. Clark Joslin's first wife died in 1850; she was Cornelia L. Olcott, they were married in Clinton, Washtenaw County, Mich., April 25, 1837. A daughter Mary Lodema was born of this union. Cornelia refused to accompany her husband to the wilds of Iowa and remained with her father in Michigan, she is buried in Saline.

Dr. Clark Joslin married in Linn County, Iowa, January 20, 1842 Elizabeth Dale (dau. of Joseph Dale and his wife Mary Chatevent; Joseph who died at ae 70), born May 6, 1824. Dr. Joslin died February 25, 1900 ae 75 yrs 10 mo. 20 days, buried Riverside Cemetery Marion, Iowa. Elizabeth Dale Joslin, died December 31, 1893, she was born in Delaware County, N. Y.

The following notes from Mrs. Irene Joslin McGuire of DeWitt, Mich.:

It is thrilling to read of the experiences of these early day pioneers. Many, to this I have listened to and paid little attention to. My grandfather Dr. James M. C. Joslin often told me of the time his father Dr. Clark rode horseback through the wilderness to Dubuque, Iowa, to obtain a few ounces of quinine for his patients suffering with the ague. He led a cow all the way to barter for the medicine. The modern day Doctor who travels down the smooth highways in a Cadillac and charges ten dollars to say "Good Morning" should have such an experience! I am sorry I paid so little heed to the stories my grandfather told. Far more interesting than modern day novels"

Dr. Clark Joslin had much correspondence with many Joslin through the country trying to tie the Joslins to the family. Some of the names were Martin A. Joslin of Schenectady, Albany County, N. Y.

Martin A. Joslin was born April 20, 1827, in Albany, his mother was Phebe McCoy; he married Mary Bury, and had two sons, Edward and Harley. Martin A.'s father grandfather was Terrill Joslin, born ----, died March 1840, who married Polly ---- of Watervliet, Albany County, N. Y., and died September 1813. Martin's father - no name given - died May 21, 1876, buried on the land he lived on and the deed having been given to his grandfather Terrill Joslin, records, by Stephen Van Rensselaer, dated Dec. 29, 1809.

Another correspondant seeking Joslin connections was Joseph G. Joslin, Fitchbury, Mass., who wrote to Dr. Clark Joslin, May 25, 1878..."my father was Stephen Carter Joslin, grandfather's name was John Joslin. Perhaps Capt. John Joslyn buried in Leominster, Mass., Sept. 6, 1810, aged 75 years could be the same persons of John Joslin." Joseph G. Joslin's grandfather had told him that all Joslins in the country descended from a Peter Joslyn.....The entire family of the original Peter Joslin was murdered by the Indians at Lancaster, Mass. He married again, (no record) and had two sons, Peter and John, from one of which the family sprung.

The letters from Dr. Dana Joslin are most interesting. At the time he wrote these letters to Dr. Clark Joslin, he resided at 919 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. There was no mention of an immediate family (wife and children) if any in the Doctor's letters. He had worked diligently at tracing the Joslin family and had obtained history back to the year 1100.

Dr. Dana Joslin's father was Isreal Joslin, b 1770, son of Benjamin Joslin, born Killingly, Conn., b 1728, son of Israel.

Israel Joslin's family was -

Israel, b 1719
Gideon, b 1724
Joseph, b 1726
Benjamin, b 1728
Edward, b 1734
John, b 1736

Dr. Clark Joslin once owned over two thousand acres of land in Iowa. The Anamosa State Park was included. The Dutch Creek one hears about in this park was undoubtedly named Dutchess Creek and perhaps from family history in Duchess County, N. Y.

His children by his second marriage, were born in Jones County, Iowa:

i Mary Loudema, b ---- 1837, by first marriage;
mar. Oct. 21, 1866 Calvin H. Bingham, b Cornish New Hampshire, Dec. 23, 1796, d Jan. 26, 1870

Dr. Dana I. Joslin of St. Louis, Mo. wrote in 1897 that in his searching for information on his ancestry, he learned that the Joslin name and family is very old and reaches back to the time of Emperor Charlemagne, who daughter married Count Joceline; and Sir Gilbert Jocelyne was descended from that union, and he accompanied William, Duke of Normany in his expedition for the Conquest of England, 1066, and became the founder of Joslin family in that country. He received from William I extensive territorial grants in County of Lincoln, among which were the Lordships of Sempringham and Tyrington. His son Gilbert devoted himself to a religion life, and founded the order of the Gilbertines and was canonized a Saint by Pope Innocent III in 1202. Younger son Thomas, married Maude, daughter and heiress of John Hyde, of Hyde Hall, and grand daughter of Baron Dudeley by which marriage the family obtained the estate which has ever since remained in its possession. One of this stock married Anne, the heiress of the Percy's, and became Duke of Northumberland. Another was a signer of the Magna Charta, another is the present Earl of Roden.

The Josseline founder of the family in America came in the "Increase" 1635, landed at Hingham, Mass. died Lancaster, 1660; married Rebecca -----.

Many Joslin names can be found in various lineages in Daughters of the American Revolution Lineages books and also the Daughters of the American Colonists Lineage books.

Mrs. McGuire also writes that the family Bible which she has in her possession is not as important as is the record kept by Dr. Clark Joslin and Dr. James M. D. Joslin. This book contains most of the information andalso of the sale of lands, etc., by these men.

A photo stat copy has been made of the Bible and is in possession of Mrs. Marjorie Hungerford Cook.

Martin A. Joslin wrote to Dr. Clark Joslin, that Henry DeLong, husband of Margaret Joslin had moved to Canada, they had two sons, Simon and Jerry; Simon died 1875.

John Chambers, husband of Martha Joslin, is mentioned as a great uncle to Martin A. Joslin; also that John Chambers and Martha had two sons, John and Joshua. A Simon Delong is mentioned as being a cousin of Martin A.'s father.

HUNGERFORD

The History of Jones County, published by Western Historical Company, 1879, page 629, gives the following record:

Chester B. Hungerford was born in Jefferson County, N. Y., and came to Jones County, Iowa, 1865. He married June 11, 1854, Julietta Garlock, who was born April 4, 1834 in New York. They were republicans, and members of the Baptist church. One son was born to them, Chester Bartlett Hungerford, he grew to manhood in Anamosa, and married Marion E. Joslin.

From a small piece of paper on which is written the following information, and found in a family Bible, we have found and traced the above lineage of Mrs. Cook and her sister Mrs. Ritenour:

We deciper that Chester B for Bartlett Hungerford born September 23, 1875 was the son of Chester Hungerford and his wife Juliette Garlock, who were married June 11, 1854. They are buried in Riverside Cemetery, Anamosa, Jones County, Iowa, Mr. Hungerford died Nov. 21, 1901, and his grave has an Odd Fellows Emblem on his grave; Juliette Garlock Hungerford died May 19, 1925

Chester Bartlett Hungerford, b Sept. 28, 1875 married in Anamosa, Iowa, May 4, 1898 Mary E. Joslin, as previously given under Joslin lines.

"I have never corresponded with either Mrs. Adah Seger of St. Petersburg nor Mrs. Beatrice Hunter of Warwick, R. I. Very likely one would have to get the street addresses to reach them. Do you have that information? I had the privelege of seeing the collection of papers of a lddy who had done very much research on the Joslin ancestors. Just by accident I signed my middle name as Joslin and the Librarian said at once she was a Joslin and I found I had corresponded with her mother years ago. The mother died years ago and left the papers to a grand daughter who is too busy with babies to do anything with it, and her mother the librarian said she couldn't make head nor tail out of it.

I tried to straighten it out as the mother had her line back to Charlemagne. She traced our line in the United States back to Thomas of Hingham, Mass. Some lady in New York had her line in the State Historical Society publications with five generations back, to Thomas of Hingham (Nathaniel, Peter, John, James, Thurston, John Gains, our probable line.

James name spelled differently, paid taxes in New York, Duchess co nty, till 1769. Another clue to him is that he married Dozia Thurston, Jan. 19, 1760. The spelling is Goslin, but they were attrocious spellers in that day. Thurston is a name in the family.

One thing I tried to solve was that John Gains Joslin first came to Huron County, Ohio, and so did Hope Campbell Joslin, widow of Sergeant Joseph Joslin, physician. No doubt these were land grants for soldiers. Hope Joslin had two daughters. I believe she was a great aunt of John Gains. I did find a Joseph and James brothers, sons of John. There was no death of a Joslin listed in the Duchess county records, but that might be possible. It is a little strange that in three brothers of John Gains family the boys were named James and even the grandsons of some of them. Back in the early days the name Josselyn was changed to Joslin by a James Jossely? The tradition has come down that the name was changed in this way.

Somewhere I have a record that Count Josselin came to England with William the Conqueror and that is where the family started in England. Count Josselin married Charlemagnes daughter. It is most interesting.

As to the Hales; I had the census record of 1850 of the Hales. The ancestor was Joseph and his wife Mary. Howhwm they ever got Polly out of Mary I don't know, but Papa called her Polly. I have seen the graves of the two near Jamestown, Wisc. which is near Dubuque. She is called Mary there and he is Joseph. Grandmother Hale was a Grotevant and she had a brother Philip. The names must be correct from the evidence of the consus and the monuments. The monuments were put up by ther son Peter and he said so on the monuments. Evidently the other children didn't help. If you care about the names of the Hale brothers and sisters tell me. I have them. I tried to find Hale ancestors, but found the nearest possibility was an Oliver Hale of New York. There as a stream called Hales Eddy. Grandmother had a brother Oliver.

I do not have the date of Theodora (Rhoda's birth) --June 1753, Lebonan, Conn.) married to Samuel Walcott in 1737. This was her second marriage and she had four Brown children. Samuel's first wife died in 1736. The Woodworth line should be interesting also the Hale andAnnie Woolman's ancestors."

Saturday, July 5, 1958, EAST IOWA CHURCHES--FAIRVIEW

"First Baptist church in Jones County, by Walther Carstens.

Anamosa--The First Baptist church in Jones County, organized in 1848, was located at Fairview, a village 4 miles southwest of Anamosa on U. S. highway 151.

Organizational proceedings started on July 29, 1848, when a group of Baptist affiliates met and organized a congregation. Members of this group included Louis W. Homan, Nathan B. Homan, Abram Raver, John G. Joslin, John Morehouse, Cordelia Peet, Margaret Morehouse, Temperance M. Homan, Candace Joslin, and Barbara Raver.

An assemblage of pastors and representatives of Baptist churches from Iowa City, Marion, Davenport, Delaware, Cascade, Dubuque and Maquoketa, at a called meeting Aug. 17, 1848, recognized the organization and authorized the church.

Three years later, the congregation erected a brick building in which they conducted regular services for nearly 50 years. Elder Nathan B. Homan was a pastor for 15 years. Timothy Soper and A. A. Myrick were deacons and with their wives were mainstays of the church.

Anamosa, with railroad connections established in 1860, rapidly outgrew the Fairview settlement and in 1858 had established a Baptist church which attracted several members of the Fairview church. Decline of membership and decrease in population eventually forced the Fairview church to close.

Two other churches, Methodist and the Church of God, were established in Fairview. The Church of God never materialized beyond meetings held in homes.

The Methodist society, organized for many years, erected a church building in 1878. This denomination continued the longest. In later years Fairview Methodist church became a community assembly until 1954 when purchased by a group of Southern Baptists.

This group of Southern Baptists from the Marion, Springville and Anamosa area, organized in 1951, and until the purchase of their new quarters held meetings in the home of the Rev. Harry Eales.

Fairview congregation, bolstered by the addition of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Cummins of the community church, after discussion authorized the Rev. Mr. Eales, Houston Cummins and Floyd Brown to purchase the former Methodist church building in Fairview. And in June of 1954, the congregation under the direction of the Rev. Bruce Maples, superintendent of Missions in Missouri, organized Fairview Baptist church.

The present Fairview Baptist church is the first fully Southern Baptist church in the state of Iowa; it associates itself with sister churches in Missouri and cooperates with the Southern Baptist convention.

The Rev. Harry Eales served as pastor when the church was organized. During 1955, the Rev. Everett Bryant of the State Mission board served as pastor protem until November of that year. Martin Brockett, who entered the ministry during this period, supplied the pulpit until May, 1956, when the congregation called the Rev. Kenneth A. Sorden as full time pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Sorden came from the Springfield, Mo. area where he had held previous pastorates. He is a graduate of Southwest Baptist college and Drury where he majored in Bible, religions and philosophy. He started his 3rd year as pastor in June.

Starting with 16 members, the church now has 74 members. Improvements on the church structure include an educational unit that will provide 11 classrooms, a social room, kitchen, library, pastor's study, a baptistry and choir pit. The parsonage, purchased a few years ago, is located in Lisbon.

The church has 4 ordained deacons: Perry Hicks, Houston Cummins, Chester Eales, and Burl Cummins, Ardis Vance has been set aside for ordination.

Regular services, including Sunday school, morning worship, training union, and evening worship are held every Sunday. Prayer meetings are conducted on Wednesday evenings and regular meetings of the W M S, Brotherhood and youth groups at stated intervals. Revival meetings, conducted by the Rev. W. R. Mattingly of Gravette, Ark., have just been completed.

Mrs. Batelle Cusher is the link between the past and the present. She became a member of the Methodist church at Fairview in 1889, and remains to this day a regular attendant at services in the same building in which she attended similar services when she was a child. She is 82 years old. "
